Edith Kermit Carow Roosevelt FIRST LADY SUITE

History: Edith Kermit Carow Roosevelt, mother of five, was the perfect compliment to her husband. She experienced a privileged life, and was properly educated in Miss Comstock's School. "Dignified" is the word that best describes this First Lady, because she shielded her family from the public's intense interest and, at the same time, ran an efficient household.

This corner Suite is very private and has an adjoining bath with a tub/shower combination. Guest robes are provided for your use. The bed is American Oak and is king-size. A settee grouping provides comfortable seating in this well-lighted room. We provide a internet connection, telephone for your use, together with a television.
